First Votes Counted In News Baby Contest Shown Today

The first list of votes cast in our Great Baby Contest will be found on another page of today's NEWS, and that, very likely will be the first page most of our readers will turn to. Everyone hereabouts is becoming excited about our great little baby race, and this interest will become keener as the little ones drive ahead for the gold and glory that awaits the winners at the end of this appealing competition.

The voting this week is composed mostly of coupon votes cut from our newspaper, although in a few instances, several of the little sugar-plums have started the ball rolling by including votes secured on subscriptions they turned in recently.

The same opportunity exists for all the supporters of the little ones. All that is needed is a few subscriptions, either renewals or new subscriptions, to elevate your baby into a commanding position in this great race. Subscriptions are all around you and can be had for the asking. If no votes make their appearance for your baby, we will know, of course, that you have decided to make no effort to capture one of our valuable prizes together with the prestige that will accompany it.

The list of contestants is so large that it is rather confusing for our readers to determine just who to vote for. They have their favorite, surely, but they hesitate to vote for the baby unless they know that the parents are going to make an active effort to bring about victory for their little one. If they see no votes appearing for the baby, they naturally believe no effort will be made, in which case they would give it to some baby that is showing a little activity.

That's a very normal reaction, those votes are valuable, especially where a baby's interests are concerned, and they don't want to waste them. So, in order to clarify the situation, as soon as we learn where the interest lies, we will drop from the list the little ones for whom no effort is to be made. Then the public can give their support to some little sweetheart, knowing that it will help the baby on to victory and that Ma and Pa will appreciate it greatly.

It will very likely come as surprise to many of the parents to realize that others are sending in votes for their baby without any solicitation whatever. This certainly should be a matter of much satisfaction and pride to the parents of the little ones thus favored, and it should instantly stir them into activity in their baby's behalf. Surely you are not going to sit idly by and see others voting for your baby without you, yourselves, putting your shoulders to the wheel and help the good work along.

The big 5,000 extra vote bonus given on each one year subscription turned in during the period ending May 5th, gives you the opportunity to hoist baby into a position of prominence which will give you much personal satisfaction, and at the same time, encourage the baby's admirers to continue their support; step out and pick up your support; step out and pick up your support; step out and pick up your support.

YOUTH CENTER BEING PLANNED

Groundwork for an organization that would materially benefit the young people of the city and surrounding area was held Wednesday night at the Woman's Club when a group of enthusiastic Fultonians met to make plans for the establishment here of a youth center. The center would be patterned after other successful groups in the State and Nation and would be a boon to properly supervising the playtime hours of the teen-agers in the county.

At the meeting Wednesday Clifford Shields, president of the Young Men's Business Club reported on his investigation with Slayden Douthitt of a building to house the center. Prominent among the sites is the building that formerly housed the Presbyterian Church and owned by Herman Easley.

Thorough discussion of the project brought forth an elaborate plan to bring into the formation of a tentative Fulton Recreational Association, all of the civic, cultural, (Continued on page twelve)

LETTER TO THE EDITORS

PAUL AND JOHANNA WESTPHLING
EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS
THE FULTON NEWS
FULTON, KENTUCKY
Dear Friends

I am very glad to have an opportunity to explain to you my reason for vetoing House Bill No. 485. I believe they are well founded and I hope you will agree with me.

This bill provides that district boards of education only may make school levies in independent districts where the boundary line includes a city of the fourth class, together with other territory outside of the corporate limits of said district. This is a departure from the usual procedure and that which is now required by law for making school levies by the City Council Fiscal Court.

By paragraph three of the bill, the city assessor determines the amount of the taxable wealth in the corporate limits of the city, and the county assessor determines the amount of taxable wealth outside of the city limits. This bill does not make it very clear as to whether the rate of levy is to be based upon the two assessors separately; namely, the city and county, or whether upon the county only. As now provided by law, the Fiscal Court can levy upon the county assessment in such districts. There appears to be no advantage, therefore, to this bill if the assessment is to be based upon the county levy throughout the district. If it is to be based upon both the county and the city assessments, the Department of Education felt it would be difficult of administration and would make confusion in putting into operation Section 160.460, Kentucky Revised Statutes, which it amended.

Because of the conditions which I have stated above, it seemed wise to veto this bill. Under these conditions, I trust you may concur.

Sincerely yours,
EARLE C. CLEMENTS,
GOVERNOR

MRS. HENDON WRIGHT ELECTED HEAD OF WEST FULTON P-TA; OTHER OFFICERS ELECTED

Organization Gives First Donation of $150 For New Uniforms For Band Members

Just at the time she was graciously accepting her nomination and subsequent election to the office of president of the West Fulton Parent-Teacher Association, Mrs. Hendon Wright was presented with a school bell given with a ten-second ring, which may be prophetic in the case of the newly elected officer, Mrs. Hendon Wright who said: "I don't know what I will accomplish during the ensuing year but I do know that I am going in with a bang." Mrs. Wright was elected in enthusiastic balloting with Mrs. R. E. Hyland, who nominated from the floor.

Other officers elected to serve the 1948-1949 school term with Mrs. Wright are: Mrs. Fred Gibson, vice-president; Mrs. Aaron Butts, re-elected secretary and Mrs. Clint Reeds, treasurer. All were elected by acclamation after having been presented to the chair by a nominating committee composed of Mesdames Milton Exum, chairman, Frank Brady and J. H. Patterson, Jr.

Mrs. Wright succeeds Mrs. Leo Greengrass who has worked untiringly in the interest of better relations with the teachers and the parents of the West Fulton Schools.

Fulton Homemakers Hostesses To Group

Fast becoming the mecca for county, district and State meetings, Fulton was hostess yesterday to more than 750 women of the Purchase District Homemakers when they gathered in Fulton for their Spring meeting. Hostess to the meeting was the Fulton County Homemakers Club of which Mrs. Roy D. Taylor is the efficient president.

Opening the morning session at the Carr Institute auditorium registration began at 9:30 a. m. Theme for the meetings was "Living Up to Our Responsibilities."

May 3-8 Is City Clean-Up Week; Trash Hauled Free

May 3-8 (next week) is Clean-up week in Fulton.

Ward Johnson, chairman of the City Streets committee of the City Council, has announced that the city trucks will spend the entire week, or as much of it as necessary, making the rounds of all business and residential areas picking up any accumulations of junk and hauling them away.

Johnson emphasizes, however, that any discarded material meant to be gathered together in one pile and placed either at the edge of the street or the alley adjoining the premises. Truck drivers are not authorized to clean either yards or vacant lots themselves.

The clean-up campaign ties in with the current effort of the local Health department to eliminate all trash accumulation as potential breeding area for rats and mice, as well as flies, snakes and other pests.

Here is your opportunity to start out the summer with nice, clean, pest-free premises . . . and have your trash hauled away free.

IC Club Puts Knotholers In Bleachers; Applications Now Being Received

The Knothole Gang, that symbol of American boyhood as essential to baseball as the catcher's mask, will find it self in the limelight at Fairfield Park this season. The Fulton Baseball Association and the Illinois Central Service Club have acted as big brothers and erected new bleachers on the third base side of the playing field for the sole purpose of providing free accommodations for the diamond stars of tomorrow. This action was motivated by the safety-minded members of the I. C. Service Club and engineered by H. I. Cheatham and R. E. Hyland, a member of the entertainment committee.

Club officials said that accommodations would also be made for the colored boys who are knotholers. With Fairfield Park located beside two busy main lines with their full quota of fast passenger and freight trains plus the presence of the yard engines going to and fro, fate has been kind there being no accidents in this vicinity.

The Baseball Association readily agreed that the knothole bleachers would eliminate the above mentioned hazard and have graciously donated space for them. The Knothole Gang will be comprised of boys 8 to 16 and will carry metal identification badges issued by the I. C. Service Club. Prospective members must fill out the application blank elsewhere in today's paper, and mail to President of the Illinois Central Service Club in care of this paper.

Principal speaker for the event was Mrs. Luella Canterbury noted psychiatrist of Chicago who said: "Working for a happier life, overcoming self-consciousness, and the development of enthusiasm are the basic principles for one's peace of mind," she told the women who were assembled at the Methodist Church. Mrs. Canterbury dramatized her talk with moods and predicaments that the average woman witnesses and it was a pity that the entire city could not have been there to hear and see her. The speak is a noted specialist and lecturer and has practiced in Chicago for 25 years.

PAID LEAVE PLAN FOR EMPLOYEES IN TRAINING CENTERS

Plans are completed for the co-operation of employers within the Second Army to allow employees full vacation time plus military leave, in order that they might attend summer training camps with the National Guard and Organized Reserve Units.

In making the announcement today, Headquarters Kentucky Military District pointed out that the plan was originated in the Virginia Military District by Colonel John E. Featherston, District Executive. In October, 1947 Colonel Featherston approached various industrial employers with the plan and met excellent cooperation. For their generous sacrifice and cooperation these employers were awarded a certificate of Merit as a token of appreciation.

Colonel Don E. Carlton, Executive of the Kentucky Military District, announced that officers of the National Guard, the Organized Reserve, and the Regular Army instructors are conducting a similar campaign in the Kentucky District. The program has been endorsed by Governor Clements. In this District certificates will be awarded to employers who join the program. The certificates are signed by the Commanding General, Second Army, Lt. General Leonard T. Gerow, the State Adjutant, Brig. General Roscoe L. Murray, and Col. A. D. Fisher, the Regular Army Senior instructor for the Organized Reserve of Kentucky.

In a letter addressed to employers Governor Clements says: "As Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, I appeal to all employers to make the sacrifice necessary to do their part in the training and building of our Citizen Army, Navy and Air Force. I urge all employers to come out openly in favor of permitting all employees to attend National Guard or Organized Reserve Corp active duty training and encampments. I further urge that attendance at such training camps will not deprive the employee of his regular annual leave and that whenever possible you, his employer, will reimburse him for the difference between his regular earnings and that paid him by the Government for the period he invests in the camps to maintain his military proficiency."

TODAY LAST DAY FOR FARMERS FILE WORKSHEETS

The last day for Kentucky farmers to file "farm worksheets" in the 1948 Agricultural Conservation Program is today (April 30) except for those counties which have announced an earlier closing date. M. D. Royse, chairman of the Production and Marketing Administration State Committee, said here today.

Farmers are required to file the worksheets in order to qualify for Federal farm program assistance in carrying out conservation practices on their farms. Royse said. This applies to both the supplying of conservation materials like lime and phosphate and the repayment of part of the cost of practices at the end of the year.

Reports from 23 counties in the State indicated that about 40 percent of Kentucky's farmers had signed up in the 1948 ACP as of April 9, Royse stated. In the 23 counties reporting, 60,931 farmers had signed up in the 1948 program on that date, the State PMA chairman said, and in the entire State he estimated that approximately 85,000 were signed up. Around 210,000 Kentucky farmers are eligible to participate in the program.

Although funds for the Agricultural Conservation Program are greatly reduced this year, Royse pointed out that farmers may obtain assistance in carrying out four or more conservation practices in every county in Kentucky.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, May 2, 1948.

The Golden Text is: "Evil shall slay the wicked: and they that hate the righteous shall be desolate. The Lord redeemeth the soul of his servants; and none of them that trust in him shall be desolate." (Ps. 34).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let Israel hope in the Lord: for with the Lord there is mercy and with him is

HEARTS and FLOWERS By PATRICIA LATANE

Miss Latane: Please consider the following questions:

My Dear L. R.

Your coat might turn up but I don't think so. Mrs. E. B. did not get your coat you can rest assured, and as for your physical condition it is only in your mind. As for your success in your undertakings, yes you would be if you will undertake something. You will have to do that first before you can be successful.

Take a tip and knock the chips off your shoulders. You will get along better. You aren't suppose to fight evil with evil.

Miss Latane:
I am a young man 37 years of age have been married and lived together a short while and am now in a law suit with my wife. Which one do you think is to blame, and why is it that the other side won't give me a trial. I am in bad health and tell me what you think is best to do.

H. H. S.

Dear H. H. S.

I read handwriting so you will have to write the letter yourself as this letter was written by a woman and not a man. So, if you want to know the answers to your question be glad to answer them, but write the letter yourself. Do not have someone write for you. Are you sure these are your right initials?

Miss Latane:
I am not from Fulton but see the paper and read your article every week. I would like for you to answer a few questions for me.

1-Will I ever marry? 2-Will I ever have a home? 3-When will I see my mother? 4-Where is my brother? 5-Have I ever been in court?

M. K. K.

My Dear M. K. K.

Yes, you will marry. You will marry the man that lives about 3 miles from where you are staying and working which is on a farm. Yes, you will have a home for this man has a beautiful place. I also see he is older than you but you will get along fine. You will see your mother this coming Christmas. She will learn of your marriage through a friend of yours. You will have to write and let her know of your marriage. Although your marriage you will get your children back, and if I see right which I think I do, you have two, a boy and a girl which were taken away from you by law and which you haven't seen since. The father of these children is dead and has been about three or four months. My advice is to marry this man at once then contact the court that awarded the children to their father and explain you are married and you will get the children when they find that you have made such a change. Your brother is in a guard house of the U. S. Army because of something pertaining to a girl. I think I have already answered question 5 about court. Yes, you have been in court very much. You have been very unhappy for the last 3 1-4 years but you will be happy here on out.

This Little Pig Went To Market . . .

If the ministers of Fulton could hear the vituperatives, expletives and just plain old-cussing that goes on in front of the viaduct near our office three and four times a day, they would immediately start a revival for the misguided and chagrined truck drivers that must pass our way.

The cause of their ruffled nerves is ten feet, six-inches height of the viaduct, which we might add is the cause of many a frayed temper in this neck of the woods. But specifically their gripe is this.

They roll down the highway whistling at their work. They drive down Lake street, or maybe the Mayfield highway approaching Fulton, or any other in-road to the city via Lake street Extension and all of a sudden they come upon the monstrosity that blows a fuse in the motor of the car and the mechanisms of their temper. That derved viaduct is just too low for most of the trucks that pass this way.

Just yesterday we were typing up a storm in the serenity of our office and bang . . . the loudest screeching you ever heard . . . the top of the truck was just-a-scraping that viaduct. Out jumps the truck driver and grimm-mi-e-e-e we had to muffle the sounds so that young son of ours wouldn't learn his first words from that man.

Then there was the time that a group of farmers exploded almost in mid-air when several crates of eggs fell off because of the low-slung roof of the pass-way in mention. And we'll never forget that dreary, rainy, cold day not so long ago when along comes a truck load of young pigs and the driver thought that maybe by chance he could make it. But no, the back gate of the truck flew open and of all the squealing, grunting and oinking of pigs all over the street we never heard before. Couldn't really tell who was making the worst sounds, the pigs grunting or the farmers fussing. To top it off, the road you know the one that's going to be fixed some day, was especially rugged and with the pigs in the water, the rain on his face and the viaduct in his hair, it was a real show.

Now we're not suggesting that they fix the viaduct. Heaven's no . . . that would take an act of Congress or maybe an Act of God, what we would like to see done is for the city to erect a sign, well in advance of each approach and just TELL those truck drivers and farmers what the height of the viaduct is. It would of many a cuss word free 'em . . . and foolish trip.

It wouldn't cost much and it's the least we can do for folks who bring their little pigs to market.

How about it Mayor Boaz, Chief McDade, et al.

Fear Can Kill

Ever since Hippocrates in the fourth century, B. C., identified by name the malignancy which we know as cancer, there has been a reluctance by most people to look squarely into the face of this disease. All down the years little has been done about cancer. Because it was feared, this summons to death was treated like the spectre at the feast.

Today, because of nation-wide efforts of the American Cancer Society to unmask cancer and to cure it, people are beginning to realize that the greatest fear is that of the unknown. Cancer reaps the lives of more than 185,000 Americans every year. Now we are beginning to know that ostrich-like attitudes are allies of this disease.

Great medical strides have been made in the past two decades, and it is heartening to know that most cases of early cancer now can be cured. We must remember, however, that cancer is a sneak-thief which attacks the human body with stealth. Usually the disease is well advanced before it is brought to the attention of the doctor.

Cancer's symptoms cannot be shrugged off with the mental comment, "It can't happen to me." Cancer can, and does, strike all segments of our population with equal impact. It kills one American every three minutes and although persons over 40 are more susceptible to the disease, cancer reaches into every age bracket. Fourteen hundred children under 15 years of age succumb annually to cancer.

Most reliable estimates indicate that there are at least 930,000 persons in the U. S. with cancer. Only about 500,000 of these are under treatment. The others do not know they have the disease.

Ignorance and fear normally would kill most of these. But, because America has had a great awakening to the danger of neglect, many of these incipient cancer sufferers will go to their family physician or a cancer detection center in time. There is no reason to let cancer cut short so many lives.

The American Cancer Society's program of education has shown that many lives can be saved. It is up to us now to do our part. This newspaper feels that a real public service can be performed by reminding its readers of the facts about cancer.

The annual fund-raising drive of the American Cancer Society will be launched today. The Society needs money not only for its educational work but vast sums are required for research to learn more about cancer so that a cure may eventually be developed, and for service—providing equipment and personnel for clinics, hospitals, and for home care, dressings and transportation.

Every person in this community should feel it his duty to learn the facts about cancer and to give generously to the campaign.

A STRANGE surprising gladness stole my heart
At night when heaven's first lights, dim and far,
Swing in the dusk and each one suddenly
Becomes the silver wonder of a star,
Becomes a shining splendor on the hills,
Unfading, steadfast, calm and high and white,
Stars are so beautiful, so steeped in peace,
They rest me more than anything at night.

There is an ancient comfort in the stars—
I treasure it: "Lift up your eyes and see."
"He calleth them by name—not one hath failed—"
Oh, often through His stars God comforts me.

There is a tumbled down rock in the weeds by the side of the road. Near the vertex of the angle made by the ribbon of concrete known as route No. 51 to Memphis and the road that runs west from Fulton and known as the State Line, this tumbled down rock might be guessed to be one of the old markers set at five mile intervals along the boundary between the states of Kentucky and Tennessee. There was one at Whitesell's hill, one below the Harry Murphy farm and perhaps the only one still standing at a point a mile west of Jordan. No, it is not one of these. There is no carving of the letters "KY" on one side and "TENN" on the other. There is engraved on this rock in the weeds an inscription which tells that it is a memorial marker to Jefferson Davis erected by the Daughters of the Confederacy in memory to the President of the Confederate States of America from whom the highway takes its name, The Jef-erson Davis Highway.

At this rock the highway has its beginning. It is a major gateway to the south. By this point pass the traffic of industry; southern lumber, fruits and vegetables moving north; northern machinery, furniture and farm and home implements moving south. Here pass the tourists from the north seeking the balm of southern winters, the charm of New Orleans and Natchez and the culture of ante-bellum plantation homes.

Are we going to let one of these touring Yankees stumble upon this tumbled down rock and find out how long it has lain supine in the weeds? Is our spirit of states' rights so dead, or our love of equality which holds that there must be equal justice before the courts of law but holds that no power on earth can ever force any person to choose to associate those with whom he does not wish to associate? Are we to take it, like the stone lying down—this still virile effort to hold back the progress of the south by discriminatory taxes, rates and tariffs?

Let's keep alive the traditions of the south. Let's keep fresh the memories of Lee and Forrest and Johnson and Beauregard and Pickett and Jackson. Let's not by our neglect dishonor the memory of the loving hands who erected the monument. Let's lift it up and set it in its place again.

Cleanliness is next to Godliness. If there is any movement that makes for greater cleanliness than Grace Cavender's campaign to put a covered trash can at every kitchen door step, then tell us, please, what it can be. If you want to foster a growth in the rat population, increase the presence of disease bearing filthy flies, set up poison feeding stations for pets, pollute the atmosphere of your own and your neighbor's back yard then continue to scatter openly your garbage and kitchen midden just as the Indians did. When the stink got too bad they changed camp sites. They might be here yet if they had used trash cans.

The Combat Soldier—Infantryman, Artilleryman, or Armored Cavalryman—is tops in the Army. Other branches exist only to support him. Ask about the Combat Army at the local Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

1. EASY TO PLANT. Uniformly graded kernels drop evenly, save time and fuss.
2. GERMINATES VIGOROUSLY. Grows fast, produces good stands, gives more ear producing stalks.
3. YIELDS EXTRA BUSHELS. Bred for high yields, brings extra dollars per acre.
4. WIDE SELECTION OF HYBRIDS. Early, medium, and late varieties especially adapted for your particular soil.

ever pray for a miracle?

Her husband's out in the waiting room now. Waiting to see if they can stop Cancer from eating out her life. Trying to believe she has a chance. Praying for a miracle.

This time they discovered Cancer in time and he'll be able to take her home.

They're performing many a miracle like this one in hospitals all over the country. But the great miracle millions are praying for is that science will find a cure for all cancer. Last year Cancer killed more than 188,000. Sooner or later it reaches, on the average, into every other home in America. It takes the young as quickly as the old—the rich as surely as the poor.

Next time you see a Cancer donation box, remember it's your chance to buy protection for your friends, your family or perhaps yourself.

THE AMERICAN WAY

BELIEVING PERSONALITIES

By George Peck

Several months ago I recommended to the readers of this column that they listen in on the "Coffee With Congress" radio program which is broadcast each Saturday over the National Broadcasting Company's network. If you haven't as yet given yourself the pleasure of tuning in on this most interesting and informative program, let me again urge you to do so.

Most of us, unfortunately, do not know too much about the 531 men and women we send to Congress. This radio program takes you into the Congressman's home; let you meet him and the members of his family. It is so intimate one can almost smell the coffee the participants are drinking while the program is in progress.

TRAVEL DELUXE ON 'THE ROCK'

Great Britain's formidable stronghold was one of many ports of call the Midway crew members visited in a tour of the Mediterranean.

A few weeks ago Congressman Harold C. Hagen of Minnesota held the spotlight on the "Coffee With Congress" program. As is customary, toward the end of the half-hour the N.B.C. interviewer, Bill Heron, asked Congressman Hagen what he foresaw for the future of America and of the world. His reply carried such an inspirational message that I quote it:

"What about the future of America and the future of the world? My hopes, and I am sure your hopes too, were very high that day in August 1945, when we learned peace had come. But now, turmoil, distress, and uncertainty, are everywhere. Man and his leaders do not seem to have found the way toward peace in this world. But there is a way.

"In college I studied a lot of history and I recall that the men and women who founded this country pointed that way. They were people of great faith in the future. They laid a foundation which teaches that man is a free individual and can, with the help of God, work out his own destiny.

"So, deeply rooted in American traditions is the basic idea of the sacredness of human personality and the sovereignty of God. "I believe that today Americans must go out, both at home and abroad, to inspire faith in bosoms where it has died, to help stricken people to their feet, to fight against disease, ignorance and poverty everywhere.

"My deep conviction is that the future of the world is in the hands of believers and 'believing' personalities.

"For myself, I build my confidence for the future, as George Washington and Abraham Lincoln did, upon a faith in a God, who governs His world in the principle of what we sow, we reap. Therefore, I am trying to put into this world more than I take out.

"If I can join with millions of other resolute Americans in this purpose, a peaceful America and world as well, will be our priceless possession and a heritage for our children and future generations."

When Congressman Hagen said "I am trying to put into this world more than I take out," he was not just giving lip service to a beautiful philosophy of life. His constituents in the Ninth Minnesota District have testified in no uncertain manner that they have an abiding faith in their Washington representative.

In turning to the Congressional Directory, I find that Harold C. Hagen of Crookston, Minnesota, was elected to the 78th Congress in 1942; was reelected to the 79th Congress in 1944 by the largest majority and by the largest vote ever given a winning candidate in the history of the district, and also reelected to the 80th Congress in 1946, setting still another new record for the largest majority ever given a winning candidate in the district, the margin of victory being 21,820 votes.

The foregoing would seem to prove that Congressman Hagen is one of those "believing personalities" about whom he speaks; to whom America can confidently look for leadership to bring peace to this troubled world.

UNION HEAD ISSUES WARNING TO TOMATO GROWERS IN COUNTY

"The Campbell Soup Company's demand for a $3.00 a ton cut in contract prices to be paid to tomato growers brings deflation and depression one step nearer to the farmers of this area. What the growers and the community need is not a cut in contract prices but a raise," Herbert Kling, regional director of the Food, Tobacco, Agricultural and Allied Workers Union (C.I.O.) said today.

A cut of $3.00 a ton means a ruinous loss to the farmers in 1948. Costs of fertilizers, sprays, machinery and other production items have gone up, not down.

Campbell Soup management's claim that retail food prices will be down next fall, and that therefore the growers should take a cut now is preposterous, he said. Even if this prophecy were true, the growers should not be asked to sacrifice their investment and their living standards now for future Campbell Soup profits, which are already enormous, he added.

"The grower's share of the retail cost of a No. 2 can of standard tomatoes last year was only about four cents out of a total of more than 19 cents, and obviously his share of a can of tomato soup is even smaller. The growers' share should be increased.

"Cutting the farmers' price endangers production. Food is desperately needed all over the world. The farmers' living and the workers' jobs are at stake.

"We of FTA are ready at all times to help the farmers get a fair break in their contract. We suggest a joint conference with the growers to work out means of getting such a price."

A & P Gives Money For National Award

With the last winter frost out of the ground, thousands of young American boys and girls are beginning to plant the crops they hope will bring them a share of the $10,000 in awards offered each year by the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association.

The program, open to boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 21, is featured by the A & P Food Stores' awards totaling $6,000 in the big production marketing contest. Last year 43 states were represented in this project, which stresses improved growing practices and better marketing methods.

Aim of the junior association is to produce a more efficient farmer and sounder agricultural economy for the nation. The youthful agriculturists engaged in this program are utilizing the most modern means as they plant and cultivate their thousands of acres.

Any boy or girl who wishes to enter the N.J.V.G.A. contests may do so by contacting their local 4-H Club leader or by writing to Professor Grant B. Snyder, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass.

Marjorie Sherwood Weds William Raymond Bowles In Impressive Ceremony At First Methodist Church

One of spring's most beautiful weddings of interest was impressively solemnized Saturday afternoon at the First Methodist church when Marjorie Sherwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sherwood of Middlesboro, Yorkshire, England, became the bride of William Raymond Bowles, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Bowles of Fulton.

The improvised altar presented a beautiful scene with a table centered with a cross and candles on either side. Tall brass vases of white gladioli with tiers of glowing candles were placed against a background of fern balls and candles in floor candelabra.

Preceding the pledging of vows, a program of nuptial music was given by Mrs. C. L. Maddox, organist. Her numbers were "Ave Maria," "Bach-Gounod," "O Perfect Love" was played on the chimes. During the ceremony "To a Wild Rose" was played softly. Mrs. Joe Treas sang "Because" and "Always." The traditional wedding marches were played as recessional on processional.

The bride was given in marriage by C. P. Bowles, uncle of the groom. She wore a lovely wedding gown of magnolia white satin, the bodice featured a high neckline with a small collar with bow in front and long fitted sleeves. A large bow in the back of the bodice and a full ankle skirt added to the grace of her gown. Her fingertip veil of illusion was hand embroidered in silk thread and was arranged to a tiara of white heather. She carried a prayer book covered with red roses showered with white ribbon. She also wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Glen Bard, cousin of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a light blue dress and carried a nosegay of pink carnations, showered with white ribbon. She wore a bandeau of pink carnations in her hair.

Wilbur Ing of Saint Charles, Ill. cousin of the groom, served as best man and Glen Bard and Harold Mullins served as ushers.

Mrs. Bowles, mother of the groom wore a black and pink print with a net yoke and a black hat trimmed with pink roses. Her corsage was pink carnations.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents on Fourth street.

The living room where the couple received guests was attractively decorated with bouquets of purple and white lilies. The bride's table was draped with a lace cloth centered with a beautiful three tiered wedding cake decorated with red roses and mounted with a miniature bride and groom and flanked with tapes in crystal holders. Another feature of the decorations was the buffet which held a silver basket of snowballs and candles in silver holders.

Punch was served by Mrs. Joe Armstrong, of Fort Knox, Ky., and Mrs. Joe Mullins served the cake. Mrs. Mullins wore a spring model of red print and a corsage of red carnations and Mrs. Armstrong wore a pink print and a corsage of pink carnations Mrs. Eph Dawes presided at the register. She wore a black dress and corsage of yellow carnations. About 50 guests attended the reception.

The young couple left that afternoon for a wedding trip to New Orleans. They will return to Fulton to live with his parents until September when they will go to Rolla, Mo., where he is a student in the Missouri School of Mines.

For traveling the bride wore a three piece grey suit with teal blue accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Out of town guests attending were Mrs. P. S. Bowles of Pulaski, Ill., grandmother of the groom, Mrs. F. M. Conlan of Shawnee, Okla., great aunt of the groom, Mrs. George Grain and Mrs. May Thorgmorton of Pulaski, Ill., Mrs. J. F. Wilkinson, Mrs. Ernest Crain, Miss Rowena Dille, Mrs. Oscar awlisch, Mrs. W. B. Kennedy Mrs. J. R. Bonner, Mrs. Russell Aldrich, Mrs. Nina Aldrich, of Villa Ridge, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Wilkerson and son of Mounds, Ill., and Mrs. Joe Armstrong of Ft. Knox, Ky.

The American Legion Auxiliary enjoyed a pot luck supper Monday evening at 6:30 at the Legion Cabin with 21 members and five visitors present. Misses Virginia Holman and Lily B. Allen were hostesses.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. J. C. Olive, with the Pledge of Allegiance followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Mrs. Wallace Shankle gave the secretarial report in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Gordon Perry. The treasurer's report was given by Miss Virginia Holman. Following the business session Mrs. Paul Bennett and Mrs. Guthrie Luther, program leaders, presented Misses Martha Ann Gore and Maxine Stoker who sang "Heavenly Light" and "Now Is The Hour." Miss Gore played an accordion solo "Let the Rest of the World Go By."

A musical contest was enjoyed and Mrs. John Lancaster was the winner. The meeting was closed with the retirement of the flag.

The "most versatile soldier in the world is the US Army Infantry. He's airborne, mechanized, amphibious, the master of modern artillery and communications as well as the tools of the ground soldier."

Baby Contest

couple of subscriptions, send them in to be voted, and see your baby right up in a forward position; that's where it belongs.

The big bonus we referred to above, is good until the 5th and as it is the largest bonus that will be given during the life of the contest, you should take the greatest possible advantage of it.

Some of our workers may be inclined to withhold their subscriptions in order to not let everyone know what they are doing, or how many votes their baby has. No doubt but what that is good politics, so in order that you can turn in your business promptly, we have arranged to issue the votes, due on subscriptions in the form of a certificate. These certificate-votes you can hold until the last day of the contest if you wish or you may vote them along as you think feasible, but remember, as long as they are in your possession, no credit will be given the baby in the voting published from week to week.

This is so you can conduct your campaign as you think best without allowing your competitors to know what you are doing or how many votes your baby may have. We think this is a splendid idea and is at once your protection and assurance that when the last day arrives no one will have the advantage of knowing how many votes any baby has, or have any knowledge of how many votes their baby will have to have in order to capture that big prize or any of the other ones. That will prevent any last minute speculation which might be in evidence were the exact vote known up to that time. The honor of winning, and the prizes which will accompany them are intended as a reward for effort, popularity and personality. That's the way it should be and the way it will be right up to the end of the contest.

The campaign is now fairly underway. It is not too late to nominate your baby now and start on an equal footing with all the others. Don't hesitate any longer, however. The nomination coupon will be withdrawn soon and then it will be too late to compete. The preceding week has been largely spent in getting organized and securing the material we have for you so that you can use your effort intelligently. The campaign is now on and it will be brought to a close Saturday evening, June 12. Notice the expiration on the voting coupon and see that it reaches our office before the date on it expires. The date will be extended from week to week so you will have ample time to get them here before they become void.

Let us send you one of our little receipt books. You will find all necessary information on the cover and it will permit you to give a receipt for any you get. We will also be glad to send you a list of our subscribers in your particular territory. This list gives the date of expiration and it will be of much assistance, as very few people will be able to tell you, off-hand, where their subscription expires even though it is on their label every week—we are all in the same boat in this peculiar quirk of human nature. Send for this "aid to victory," you will find it will facilitate your effort wonderfully.

BROTHERHOOD EVERY DAY

MAN'S MOST DEGRADING MISCHIEF

By Cornelia Otis Skinner
Racial and religious intolerance is a disease of the mind as contagious as it is pernicious. It can spring up overnight amid apparent ly civilized communities of, apparently sane people and spread with the blasting speed of a forest fire in a high wind until there is no controlling it. Prejudice is man's most degrading mischief and it is viciously afoot in these trying days. It is no use our sitting back and passively assuming the attitude that, given time, racism will eventually cure itself. It won't. It can only be cured—and by cured—I mean obliterated—if you and I and every self-respecting citizen of this country and of the world starts doing something about it and starts that something right away. If prejudice, suspicion and hatred can spread with quick fury, the benign emotions of understanding, trust, and love can also spread, if not with hysterical frenzy, at least with deep-rooted sureness and dedication to the ultimate brotherhood and dignity of the one and only human race.

The Infantry, Artillery, and Armored Cavalry develop real scrapers—resourceful men with top-notch equipment. Get full details about the Combat Arms at the local US Army and US Air Force Recruiting Station.

Kentucky On The March

EWING GALLOWAY

If the columns of newspaper about teen-age delinquency in the last five years were pasted together end on end they would reach 400 miles, from Ashland to the mouth of the Ohio River at Cairo, Ill., and public speeches on the subject in that period probably exceeded 100,000. Yet I don't recall hearing the main causes of delinquency emphasized half a dozen times.

Poverty and idleness were muffled by reformers and would-be reformers searching for the main causes of crime among children.

Many small boys have turned thieves, housebreakers, burglars, because they didn't have fifty cents a week to spend for movies and soft drinks. In some cases parents were too ignorant to realize that in these luxurious times it is deeply humiliating for a child never to have spending money.

Do you, dear reader, remember ever wanting a quarter so badly it hurt? If you do, maybe you can imagine what goes on in the minds of thousands of Kentucky children whose parents give them no money and who up to now have not had a chance to earn money. And you can understand why some youngsters break the law to get things unavailable to them from honest sources.

Apparently the framers of the new Kentucky child labor law understood a good deal more about the causes of delinquency than most writers and public speakers the public has been listening to these past several years.

The new law, enacted by the recent Assembly and signed by Governor Clements, is by far the most important approach to the child delinquency evil in Kentucky that I know about.

This law permits employment of children in gainful occupations who have passed their 14th birthday, with ample safeguards, which forbid interference with schooling, heavy work, or labor in any unwholesome environment. These latter particulars are too numerous to put into this brief article. Parents of children of any age between 14 and 18, or employers desiring the services of teen-agers, should have their county attorney interpret the law for them. County attorneys are paid to do such things free of charge.

The all-important fact is that the new law is liberal, a big improvement over the old one, which latter was enacted under pressure of a reform wave in the old sweatshop era when industrial concerns converted the toil of children into dividends, a time when public indignation got the upper hand of common sense. The old law forbade the use of youngsters in many occupations that neither injured their health nor their morals—occupations that really were character-building.

The old law itself was rather poorly drawn, but fear of it by people who didn't understand it probably did more harm than the statute itself. Hence, the suggestion that both parents and employers consult their county attorneys.

Hickman Co. Gets Wildlife Plants

On Monday, April 5th, the Hickman County Soil Conservation District received 10,000 plants from the State Department of Fish and Wildlife. The plants include such plants as Black Locust, Black Walnut, Lespedeza Bicolor, Multi-Flora-Rose, Indigo Bush, Pecans, and others. These plants are distributed to farmers for planting with a twofold purpose in mind—that of providing food and cover for wildlife and to help control erosion.

The wildlife program and the soil conservation program are closely related. It is impossible to increase game without better controlling erosion.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

There's nothing quite so delicious as the fragrance of yeast bread baking. With the foundation plain-roll dough suggested by Miss Florence Imlay, specialist in foods at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics, a variety of plain or fancy rolls may be made, or Swedish tea ring.

Swedish Tea Ring
2 cups scalded milk
2 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons fat
2 teaspoons salt
1 cake compressed yeast
1-4 cup lukewarm water
6 to 7 cups flour
Scald the milk in double boiler, add fat, sugar and salt and allow to cool until lukewarm. Dissolve yeast cake in lukewarm water and add to the first mixture. Add enough flour to make a soft dough as can be handled. Knead lightly to make a smooth surface. Place dough in greased bowl, brush with fat and cover with cloth. Set bowl in warm place and let double in bulk.

Roll light dough to about 1-4 inch thickness. Spread with a thick layer of butter or fortified oleomargarine, sprinkle generously with a mixture of brown sugar, cinnamon and raisins. Roll like jelly roll, then twist it the entire length. Join the ends to make a circle and place on greased baking sheet. With a scissors, cut every two inches, making a slash almost through the roll. Set in warm place, let rise until light, then brush with a mixture of egg white slightly beaten and a half teaspoon of cold water. Sprinkle with finely cut nuts. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 to 375 degrees, for about 20 minutes.

Breakfast menu: Tomato juice, scrambled eggs and bacon, Swedish tea ring and orange marmalade, coffee, milk.

Be safety minded at all times!

About Farming
From Washington

AFBF on Aiken Bill
Farmers think the Aiken long-range bill is a good deal, provided certain changes are made in it. This is what President Allan Kline told a crowded Senate hearing room last week. Since congressional leaders have been anxiously awaiting reaction of leading farm groups to the bill, his recommendations can be expected to strongly influence action on the bill.

One of the most important changes proposed by Mr. Kline, concerns the adjustment of food supplies to market needs. The bill now provides that the prices support level shall be determined, within limits, by the ration of current supplies to an adjusted average supply for the ten preceding years. Mr. Kline suggested that current supplies should instead be geared to estimated market requirements. This would permit a more flexible adjustment of supply to unusual situations, such as drought and war. "No formula based on historical data can fit the uncertainties of the future," reminded the committee.

Other Changes
For computing parity, he recommended use of a 10-year moving average, adjusted to the over-all 1909-14 relationship (the bill now permits use of either a 10-year moving average or the 1909-14 base depending on which results in the higher price). Space does not permit detailed consideration of his other suggestions, but a few of them were: provision should be made for marketing quotas when needed to help stabilize the market; educational responsibilities assigned to Extension should specifically include technical assistance to farmers, soil conservation districts, and other agencies, the projected National Advisory Council should be made strictly advisory; agricultural payments should be made on a grants-in-aid basis from federal government to states; and last, but far from least, if Congress fails to enact long-range legislation this session, present price supports should be extended another year.

New Price Bills

It is probably no coincidence that only a few days after Mr. Kline testified—and after another AFBF official had strongly recommended to the House that CCC price support powers be extended—two new House bills appeared, providing for extension of price supports. One, an amendment to the CCC federal charter bill by Rep. Wolcott, (R., Mich.), of the Banking and Currency Committee, provides for a four-year extension of supports at present levels. The other, introduced by Chairman Hope (R., Kan.) of the Agriculture Committee, stipulates extension of supports until June 30, 1950. It would reduce cotton support to 90 per cent of parity (on motion of the anti-oleo forces), and would keep other basic commodities at that level. For For Steagall commodities, support would range from 60 per cent to the highest support in effect in 1949. However, dairy products would get maximum support of 90 per cent. Wool support would be continued. These two bills open up an inter-committee jurisdictional squabble, which will probably be resolved this week.

Senate sentiment is still strong for passage of a long-range bill this session. Chances for passage in the House may partly hinge on the fate of the new Hope bill centralizing conservation functions in USDA. Differences between this bill and the Aiken measure might not be quickly ironed out in conference.

Bogota and Farmers
The Bogota Conference was resumed last week, following termination of the riot which threatened to disrupt it. This is welcome news, not only for its immediate psychological effect, but also from the long-range standpoint of farmers in this country. Apart from its military and political implications, the Conference has an important economic purpose: to help Latin-American nations solve their dollar exchange troubles, and develop a healthier economic relationship with the U. S.

Our neighbors south of the border need farm machinery, fertilizer, and other agricultural commodities. They are trying to catch up with 20th-century methods of farming in a hurry, and desperately need U.S. help to succeed. Cooperation toward this end will benefit both sides.

Prosperity Worries
Old man prosperity is still here. Last year, national income hit a record level of $203,000,000,000, an increase of less than 14 percent over 1946. Consumers' prices rose over 14 per cent from the preceding year. Folks abroad bought $11,000,000,000 worth more goods than we purchase from them.

It may seem strange, but government officials are worried over this situation. They fear that price rises may continue, bringing higher living costs for farmers as well as consumers. They base this fear on the new $4,800,000,000 tax reduction, and expected heavy defense payments. President Truman and his Council of Economic Advisors are plugging for a return of allocation powers, and "stand-by" price, wage and rationing controls. AFBF opposes the return of controls, believing that other solutions would prove more effective.

Shades of Horace Greely
About 2,000,000 Americans have gone West in the last seven years, according to a special Census Bureau report. It's the biggest population trek since covered wagon days. About 3,000,000 people on farms—one in every eight, based on the 1940 farm population—have left for the city in this period. However, cityward migration is believed to have slowed down since the war's end. These developments indicate significant changes in patterns of American agriculture and industry.

Congress at Work
If you've wondered how Congress rushes so many bills through its mill each session, the following brief exchange may prove enlightening. It occurred in the Senate, following announcement of a new bill:

Senator Wherry: "Reserving the right to object, I wonder if the distinguished Senator from Delaware (Sen. Buck), who is a member of the Committee on Banking and Currency from which the bill was reported, can give us an explanation of the bill?"

Senator Buck: "Mr. President, I am not familiar with the bill."

Senator Wherry: "Is there any member who can give an explanation? Apparently not."

Attic ventilation can now be economically installed. Run by electricity it's naturally economical to operate. Less than two cents brings you a full night's sleep.

Let a Kitchen Fan Drive Out Odors, Smoke and Fumes

Install a kitchen ventilating fan and watch the temperature in your kitchen drop. No odors and fumes in the other rooms, either.
